OBJECTIVE

As a veteran in the industry, my vision is to help society embrace the disruptive potential of bitcoin and blockchain technology. I hope to teach educators, government officials, and potential investors that cryptographic-based assets should not be censored or regulated. The market should be freed for developers and entrepreneurs to experiment with the technology and improve the state of play. It is through the rigors of experimentation, that society is propelled forward, into a future that is pregnant with a myriad of life-enhancing possibilities.
